My Dear Anna [Hunt]:

This is just a line to extend my greetings for Christmas and New Year's 1925.

I trust that the last year has treated you kindly and that you have been blessed by your usual good health. My wife has not been well in recent years. For this reason I have a keen appreciation of how important a part good health plays in human happiness. A recent letter from Frazier Hunt informs us that he and his family are will be back in New York about the first of February next. He has been living in London for the last three years and says he is glad to get back to this country. He will continue to represent the Hearst Magazines.

You will be glad to know that Jasper's wife Emma and the six-year old Maryann are well. They are now on the train for Aledo, to spend Christmas with Ella Graham Reynolds. Maryann is a fine looking, healthy youngster. Her mother is carrying on the business left by Jasper and is keeping house in one of Chicago's suburbs only a few miles west of my home.

Hoping this finds you well and with all good wishes of the Holiday season,

I am, yours cordially,
Jasper N. Hunt
